

For Immediate Release

19 September 2007

WORLD-CLASS SECONDARY SCHOOL SEEKS MADAGASCAR'S MOST OUTSTANDING YOUNG LEADERS

African Leadership Academy (ALA), a world-class, pan-African secondary boarding school located on the outskirts of Johannesburg, South Africa, has announced that it is recruiting young leaders ages 15-17 from across Madagascar for its inaugural class.

“We are looking for Madagascar’s most promising young leaders – girls and boys – to join our inaugural class,” says African Leadership Academy Dean Christopher Khaemba. “Entry into the Academy will be based on merit alone, without regard to each student’s financial means. African Leadership Academy’s extensive scholarship fund seeks to enable all qualified students to attend.”

African Leadership Academy seeks to transform Africa by developing and supporting future generations of leaders in Africa’s public, private, and social sectors. ALA will select its first class of 100 students from across the African continent by April 2008, and admitted students will begin their two years at the Academy in September 2008. At ALA, students will complete an innovative two-year program that combines world-class ‘Advanced-level’ academic training with a unique curriculum in leadership, entrepreneurship, and African studies. ALA graduates will attend the world’s finest universities and will ultimately form a powerful, pan-African network of individuals committed to creating peace and prosperity on the continent.

African Leadership Academy aspires to one day bring the most promising young leaders from all 54 African countries to its campus in South Africa. Chris Bradford, Co-Founder and Chief Operating Officer at ALA, says that “African Leadership Academy will initially focus our recruiting efforts on a subset of countries that will deliver an inaugural class with broad cultural, ethnic, regional, national, and religious diversity. In addition to recruiting outstanding boys and girls from across Madagascar, we are actively recruiting outstanding students from Egypt, Morocco, Tunisia, Ivory Coast, Cameroon, Mali, Burkina Faso, Kenya, Tanzania, Ethiopia, Uganda, Rwanda, Nigeria, Ghana, the DRC, South Africa, Botswana, Zimbabwe and Mozambique.”

Mr. Bradford is African Leadership Academy’s lead recruiter in Madagascar. He will be visiting schools across the country and encouraging applications from students of all backgrounds who meet the Academy’s rigorous admissions criteria. ALA seeks bold, dynamic young leaders who are outstanding students and committed to their communities.

With its accomplished student body and unique curriculum, African Leadership Academy will be unlike any other school in the world. Students at ALA will have the opportunity to work with other bright young leaders from across the continent on entrepreneurial projects to develop innovative solutions to the continent’s most pressing challenges, such as poverty alleviation, health care provision, and economic development. Each student will be matched to a distinguished personal mentor and will have the opportunity to attend frequent guest lectures by prominent leaders and entrepreneurs.

African Leadership Academy

Developing the next generation of African leaders

PO Box 529, Hurlingham 2070
Sandton, South Africa

+27 (0) 11 884 3710
www.africanleadershipacademy.org
info@africanleadershipacademy.org

African Leadership Academy is led by Dean Christopher Khaemba of Kenya, a renowned school leader who previously served as Principal of Alliance High School, Kenya's leading secondary school. At Alliance, Khaemba successfully placed at least thirty students at top universities in the USA – including Harvard, Yale, and MIT – each year, with most of these students receiving full scholarships. At African Leadership Academy, Khaemba will be supported by an outstanding team of faculty from across Africa and around the world.

The ALA admissions process will be “very rigorous,” notes Mr. Bradford. Interested students must complete a written application, write an essay, and submit academic reports from their school. Finalists will complete a written entrance examination and be interviewed by members of the Academy's staff. Students may learn more and download an application at ALA's website, www.africanleadershipacademy.org.

“We seek young people with the passion and courage required to be an agent of positive change on the African continent,” says Dean Khaemba. “I believe African Leadership Academy will provide an unparalleled opportunity for outstanding young leaders to realize their immense potential. I know that there are a large number of incredible young people in Madagascar who have the potential to transform this continent. I hope many of them will choose to apply to ALA.”

BY: African Leadership Academy
CONTACT: Chris Bradford, Co-Founder and COO
E-mail: cbradford@africanleadershipacademy.org
Telephone: +27 73 896 5878

Should you write an article using this press release, African Leadership Academy would like to post the article on its website. Please email any articles to info@africanleadershipacademy.org or fax to +27 11 252 6190